

I need resumes for Manufacturing Technicians. The job description is below.

Technician-Endo AME

Assisting Manufacturing Engineer on Endovascular sustaining production support. Ensures adequate manufacturing input and support among all the production lines. Develops robust and economically feasible manufacturing processes. Identifies and implements process improvements.

Provides day-to-day technical support for Pilot Manufacturing Operations in both clean room and office environment.

Reviews manufacturing processes for the purpose of improving quality, reducing cycle time and controlling costs.

Actively assist product development teams. Assist in studies for design modification and process changes where advisable to conform to production capabilities/limitations and minimize cost. Provides technical support in transfer of manufacturing lines to other Medtronic facilities. Assists in production scale-up of new products and solving related production issues.

Assists in project planning and execution. Ensures required jigs, tooling, fixtures, and equipments are fabricated in time to maintain manufacturing operations at competitive levels. Identifies opportunities for fixturing, automation versus manual operation. Assist Quality Department in reviewing process yields and tracking defects against cost of quality targets. Develops strategy to generate process characterization study like Design of Experiments (DOE), Process Validation protocols and/or reports, Manufacturing Instructions.

Minimum education: High School or General Educational Development (GED) diploma.
Preferred education: Associate degree in engineering (Mechanical, Manufacturing or other engineering discipline), other technical degree equivalent, or higher. Strong verbal and written communication skills. Ability to handle multiple tasks concurrently. Self-motivated team player with a positive attitude in a fast pace working environment that works independently with minimal supervision. Proficient in common computer skills such as Word and Excel.

Bonus experience: Medical device, GMP/GLP/clean room, process development and validation experience is preferred but not required. Experience with machine design and metal fabrication a plus.

Sherie DeHaven Whittemore
Branch Manager
320 College Avenue, Suite 230
Santa Rosa, CA 95401
707-521-2140 phone
707-521-2154 fax
www.certifiedemployment.com